

Explication

Late in the evening a huge glass-and-concrete monster is empty. A multidisplay video-system and a tired guard are watching each other. Guard's sleeping faints turn into screen noises. He's absolutely alone. It seems that he himself is under supervision.

The first sign of danger is a strange phone call from the wife. Then more serious threat comes from the outer world. The man has to decide, what more important to him: a forgotten fairness or a false calmness at the post. Or maybe, all these strange things are just a dream...
